2017 Season Outlook:

After finishing the 2016 season below expectations, the Bearcats come into the 2017 season looking to win the conference and advance to its first ever World Series. The Bearcats closed out the Fall Season on high note with a record of 6-0.

The Bearcats have depth on the mound and will be led by veteran starters Matt Pilotti and Demitri Sanchez, along with newly added Greg Maitles. Jared Almonte and Brad Dreher will eat up innings out of the bullpen, as well as newcomers Brian Barnett, Andrew Pederson, and Anthony Moffa. The darkhorse closer, freshman Thomas Rullo, rounds out a deep group.

Featuring a deep and talented roster, the Bearcats will look to get contributions from top to bottom in the lineup. Mike O'Donnell and Joe Pavlik will look to build upon strong 2016 campaigns at the top of the order. Following them includes the likes of Junior catcher Patrick Carroll, Senior Matt Pilotti, and Sophomore Demetri Sanchez. Other returning key performers at the plate include Connor Mulry, Aaron Auerbach, and Jared Almonte. Look out for Junior outfielder Lou Scudero, who will be returning from a freak injury to his leg suffered early in the Fall.

The Bearcats can expect many newcomers as well to have valuable roles on the field. Freshmen Daniel Hennie and Thomas Rullo each batted above .600 in the Fall and will look to continue to be a tough out. Transfer Jaime Cabrera turned in an impressive .730 OBP in his first games in the Fall and will add lineup depth.

The depth and blend of production from the veterans and newcomers makes Binghamton a tough opponent. Combined with strong leadership and great team camaraderie, Binghamton gives itself an excellent opportunity to win its second conference championship in three years. Expect this team to come out with fire and intensity from the first pitch to the last out.

2017 Season Outlook: Moving conferences this year makes the outlook uncertain. In the past we've had great games against Fordham, Montclair St. and Stevens Tech. We've never played Adepfi. And of course, it is great to be back in a league with our historic rival Lehigh. The fall results suggest that this conference is wide open. We have 10 big conference games left in the spring and 9 of them are at our
