2022-2023 Season Outlook: After a strong 2021/2022 season, the Red Devils lost many Seniors that played a key role in the team's success. However, the team showed a lot of promise in the fall, and came up just short in a couple of extra inning games. In the spring, it is crucial that new players step up and fulfill many of the roles that were lost. The Red Devils expect to continue their ways of high run production in the spring. It is important, however, that the team sures up their pitching staff and defense. If the team improves in these regions, they will be a scary team that you don't want to face.

Manager Quote: "I'm really looking forward to watching the team develop this spring. We are scheduled to play 12 conference games in the month of April alone, and that will be a great test for our character. I can't wait to get back on the field with this great group of guys."

2022-2023 Season Outlook: The Hoyas return a very deep sophomore class of 9 key contributors as well as impactful upperclassmen. The entire pitching staff is intact from the 2021-2022 season, as well as a much improved arm barn full of talent. New players include transfer Dominic Vogel a crafty left-handed reliever, freshman Garrett Fallon second base/DH with great bat to ball skills, freshman Giuseppe Quatela 3B/DH, and freshman Jason Cohen 2B/SS who played a game with a broken finger. Sophomore John Thorburn leads the staff with Sophomore Nick Sachman and Senior Allen Park rounding out the rotation. Notable bullpen arms include Dante Schorge, Ayush Karthick, and Luke McMahan. The lineup is well-rounded with all spots in the order being efficient about getting on base. Notables from the fall include James Kim (.500 BA, 4 2B), Paul Noone (.412 BA, 6 RBI), and Nicho Fernandez (.467 BA, 6 RBI). With an extremely deep pitching staff and well-rounded batting order 1-9, the Georgetown Hoyas aim to be a contender to win the Chesapeake South this year.

Manager Quote: "This group of guys are very close and play hard together. We have been in every single game played this fall, and with a deep pitching staff and good lineup, we look the strongest we have ever been. We are expecting big things as a group and look forward to being a tough opponent in the spring season. If things go our way, we should be one of the top contenders in the Chesapeake South Conference, competing to clinch the first playoff berth in our club history."

Biggest Rival: Fordham

Best Player Nickname: Matt "Frobes" Frobosilo

2022-2023 Season Outlook: The Red Hawks return 20 of 22 on the roster which includes most starters and the entire pitching staff. In addition, the Red Hawks have added two key players. Kristoff Behrens and Nick Roepke. New players include junior Kristoff Behrens, a JUCO transfer 1B/3B, and freshman Nick Roepke who has seen many innings in the OF. Senior Ace Sal Barraco looks to continue his rampage throughout the NCBA by finishing his career on a high note. We also anticipate impactful final seasons from our other Seniors: Damian Scott and Mike Martinelli. MSU hopes to sweep the conference through the spring and walk straight back into the playoffs. We expect a more favorable result after our upsetting finish last year.

Manager Quote: "Nice to have this motivated group of guys back together. With some new additions, we look stronger than a year ago. I am expecting big things from this team and look forward to a solid season of play. The boys want nothing more than returning to our regional playoff tournament and getting the job done this time around."

2022-2023 Season Outlook: The Nits come into the 23-24 season ready to finish what they started. They were world series runner ups in a very eventful season last year that saw a lot of wins, few losses, and injuries that taught them to persevere and keep fighting. An addition they saw in the offseason was new pitching coach Ben Taylor who looks to be a big part of the Nittany Lions success this year. 5 players return to Penn State with the addition of 17 new guys who will all be an integral part to make Penn State a feared contender again this season.

Manager Quote: "Like I said last year, we all want to get to the championship, but everything has to be taken one moment at a time. We have the talent to take us where we deserve to be and I know we will be on the right path. I couldn't be prouder of the time and effort our guys have devoted to getting better in the offseason and the chemistry they have built. 2022-2023 Season Outlook: With a solid 2-1 start to begin NCBA play the Gulls have a very busy spring ahead of them. Starting the last weekend in February, the Gulls open up the new year at home against Christopher Newport to begin their busy three week stretch of games traveling to JMU and Stevenson in the following two weeks after. This busy schedule and losing our two aces from last year means that the pitching staff is going to need to rise to the occasion this spring as they did in the series against VCU where Ronnie Jones was two outs away from a complete game no-hitter. Also in that series we had players making their NCBA and one making their college debuts hitting homeruns in their first at bat, junior transfer Ty Kwiatkowski from Harford Community College, and freshman Antonios Aikaterinidis. As we anxiously await for the spring season to come rest assured that the Sea Gulls are hungry and are ready to start the spring hot on the road to the World Series.

Manager Quote: "This team is young, with many new guys coming in hungry to show what they have. This team is already a family. Adding three new pitchers and some home run power to the line up. This team is going to be very exciting to watch come together with majority of the team being sophomores and younger."

2022-2023 Season Outlook: The Lions started out the fall season hot with 3 huge wins against league opponent Lafayette. However injuries have plagued the Lions leading to winnable ball games resulting in hard loses. However the Lions have a youthful feel with 9 new additions to the team many of which have made a huge impact right away. Freshman catcher Joe Butera who took home national player of the week honors in our series against Lafayette. And sophomore Brandon Tso tossed 6 scoreless innings against division one opponent Drexel. The lions hope to come into spring healthy once again and finish the season on a strong note.

Manager Quote: "We had big expectations for this season after earning the rank of fourth nationally last season. Unfortunately due to injuries and competition being stronger than ever things have not exactly gone to plan. Our hope is to come back for the rest of the season healthy and ready to play. We look forward to getting back after it in the spring semester and show everyone what TCNJ Club Baseball can do!"

2022-2023 Season Outlook:

With a lot of new Freshman and Sophomore talent, the Wildcats are eager to put together a strong campaign for the remainder of the 2022-2023 season. Freshman Ethan Storz and Junior Tommy Schuster both show great signs of having breakout seasons at the plate. Junior Liam Adipietro and Sophomore Grayden Lawrence lead Villanova on the mound. With most of our position players returning from last year, the Villanova Wildcats should be a legitimate contender this year.

Manager Quote: "I am extremely excited that most of our players from last season are back again this year. We added great talent to the roster this Fall and I believe these players will take our team to the next level. I am looking forward to seeing our team play a great season in the next coming months. I believe that our strong pitching staff paired with our timely hitting will enable us to win games this year. As long as we execute the way I know we can and make sure we have maximum attendance at games, we can be real contenders this year."
